Sophisticated Java-based text editor that integrates all the necessary functions to allow you to create professional-looking documents. It has a lot of functions and options that will help you format, analyze, and integrate your writing. More info on: What's New in this Version: The latest update of this application includes the following changes and bug fixes: This version has fewer visual bugs than previous versions, but we have still closed several bugs. Also, we have included most of the updated fonts to the application. You can also access the new window features from the context menu of the scroll wheel: Scroll to Next Document, Previous Document, Zoom In, Zoom Out, Open... and so on. Bug Fixes: - Fixed a problem with disabling the standard menu of the application and creating a context menu - Fixed a problem with images on some users' computers and web browsers - Fixed a problem that prevented the preview version of the document to open - Fixed a possible crash problem during opening the application - Fixed a problem with linking to a closed tab - Fixed a problem with links of the Table of Content Some of the options have also been removed from the Import section: These options will soon be available again through a new feature (we need to improve the integration between the options from the Import section and the context menu). To update, go to Help > Check for Updates. Any problem with this update? Write to me in the field below: _____ Please notice!
